

Notes for Contributors

All manuscripts should be addressed to the Editor of The African Journal of Medicine and Medical Sciences, Professor A. Olufemi Williams, Department of Pathology, University College Hospital, Ibadan, Nigeria, West Africa.

Papers for this Journal should deal with medical diseases and research in Africa. They are accepted subject to the understanding that no substantial part has been or will be published elsewhere. This does not refer to abstracts of oral communications which are printed in proceedings of societies or symposia.

Authors must send two complete copies of the text, tables and photographs. Retain one copy for proof-reading in your office. The Editor does not accept responsibility for damage or loss of papers submitted.

Manuscripts should be submitted double spaced and typewritten with ample margins.

On a single separate sheet there must be the following: (a) title, (b) author's names and initials, (c) department/s in which the work was done, (d) the name and address of the author to whom correspondence should be addressed, (e) author's present address if different from the departments in which the work was done, (f) if paper was presented at a meeting, please indicate name of organization, city, month and year.

Titles should be short, specific and clear. Omit phrases such as 'The use of', 'Observations on'. Authors should provide a shorter running title. Manuscripts must be accompanied by a summary not exceeding 200 words and there should be a translation of the summary into French if the article is written in English and vice versa.

Photographs must be submitted as glossy prints, untrimmed and unmounted. Number each with pencil lightly on the back and indicate top. The numbers of photographs and illustrations should be kept to a minimum.

Publication of colour transparencies submitted must be paid for by the author at the time of acceptance.

All details on charts and graphs must be clearly legible when reduced to the size used in this Journal.

The onus of preparing a paper in a suitable form for publication rests with the author. The need for editorial revision of badly prepared typescripts or diagrams may lead either to rejection of the article or delay in publication.

References must be in alphabetical order and should include authors, title, name of journal, volume, inclusive page numbers and year: from books, authors, title, publisher and city. Examples of format for references are as follows:

GRAY, J.J., BLUE, A.Z. & YELLOW, W.U.
(1960) Leucocyte kinetics in tropical splenomegaly. Brit. med. J. 2, 1068-1069.

ZIEVE, A.L. (1965) In: The Physiology of the Baboon (Ed. by M. Rattle), pp. 968-990. Intellectual Press, London.

The titles of journals should be abbreviated according to the current edition of World Medical Periodicals.

References in the text should follow the Harvard system in the style: Grey, Blue & Yellow (1960) on the first quotation and, if there are more than two authors, Grey et al. (1960) in subsequent quotations. For four or more authors, the first name followed by et al. should be used on all occasions.

Reference to tables should be in Arabic numerals, e.g. Table 3, and tables should include titles which make their meaning clear without reference to text. Tables should be typed separately from the text.

Proof corrections are expensive and correction of proofs other than printers errors should be kept to a minimum.

Papers accepted for publication remain the copyright of the Journal.

Fifty offprints are supplied free and additional copies may be ordered on the printed card which will be sent to the author with the proofs.
